PEKING, July 25.—The forces of the Chinese army announced today that Gen. Chiang Kai-shek had repelled the Japanese in the first battle of an undeclared war between China and Japan.

Japanese troops, defending their garrison in the north Chinese cities of Hopeh and Shantung, were reported to have repelled three attacks after a shattering bombardment by squadrons of Japanese warplanes, counter-attacked and captured Fengtien, the field headquarters west of Peiping.

The foreign office announced from Nanking said that the Chinese railway center of Langfang, 10 miles south of Peiping, had come under the military fire. Peiping had been taken by

Japanese. Deny Reports
Chinese in Military Quarters Dented Reports of the Chinese vice ruler had asserted the 29th army had been driven out of its garrison at Nanyuan, five miles south of the ancient walled city and buried back on the walls.Peiping was attacked at dawn and had refused an ultimatum to withdraw from the north where Japanese assert they had denied economic rights. It was the largest scale fighting since the last hostilities occurred west of Peiping July 7.The intermittent fighting since then, despite what Japanese had been promised to withdraw from the anti-Japanese troops, had continued, the high command stated, that they only way to safeguard Japanese national interests was to drive out the Japanese. Last midnight the Japanese declared they would take "no action" in the crisis and an hour later the general advance was ordered.Bloody Start in Peiping Raging was said to have broken out in Peiping proper as Japanese bombers attacked the entire of the besieged city of "western peace," former capital of China. Neither report could be confirmed.The fighting was said to be mainly in the streets and Chinese reports said an American embassy guard had been wounded when he was caught between the heat of Japanese and Chinese fighting in Morrison street, Peiping's principal shopping thoroughfare.
Anxiously was felt for the safety of Americans, many of whom were

DISTRICT COURT DECIDES NINE
SILICOSIS SUITSAppeals Judges Uphold Action
of County Court in Denying Claims.

PLAINTIFFS ASKED $740,000

Attorneys Announce They Will Appeal to State Supreme Court.Nine silicosis damage suits filed by Marion workers and their relatives and asking total damages of $740,000 were decided by the court of appeals at Lima today in favor of the defendant Marion Industrial Concerns. The decision upheld the action of Common Pleas Judge Hector S. Young who this spring ruled that the patrons of the plaintiffs did not constitute a cause of action.No formal opinion was received from Clerk of Courts Carl E. Hieber but other than a brief ruling, the same in all the cases, "find no error judgment affirmed at cost of appellants. Cause remanded for execution."

Decision unanimous.

The three judges of the Third district court, Charles A. Guernsey, Phillip M. Crow and William Klinger, signed the decisions. They cited four similar cases in support of their ruling in one case of Charles Munzing against the Marion Steam Shovel Co. which was decided by the United States supreme court in favor of the company.Paul D. Sutherland, who with Dr.
Thomas H. Sutherland represents the plaintiffs in all the actions has indicated he will carry the cases to the state supreme court and possibly some of them into federal courts.Young also reported that Miss Elizabeth Zimmer, widow of Rev. and Mrs. Gerald Zimmer, missionaries from Marion, had just left Peiping for the treacherous zone around that city in May.

Trouble Expected Hourly

Following the decision of the court of appeals in the case of Peiping was regarded as almost inevitable and officials were expected hourlythat the Japanese would attack Peiping again.The situation there became tense when the Japanese command announced at midnight it was taking "active action" against China because of the "desertive attitude of the Chinese forces." However, the Japanese promised if fighting began within the city, foreigners and their property would be safeguarded.Meanwhile the U.S. Marines stationed in the city filed sand bags to fortify the four gates with the Inter-Sino Legation quarters in which they were assigned.They stood to emergency duty.
Rev. and Mrs. Zimmerman called from the United States last Aug.
29 to enter on a mission work.Rev. Zimmerman being the first member of Marion's Inter-Sino churchof Marion to enter that field. His departure for the Orient came only seven years after he had been a star football player at Harding High school here. Rev. Zimmerman is a son of Mrs. E. Belgian of 125 West Market street.Mrs. Zimmerman Monday received the letter from Mr. Zimmer relating to the Japanese attack at Nanyuan, south of Peiping, early today.The engagement opened with Japanese planes dropping explosive and incendiary bombs while artillery shelled the Chinese lines.Chinese infantrymen withdrew from which well established reports said, their planes found targets among the Japanese forces. Ninety wounded Chinese soldiers who arrived at Peiping tonight said they took a heavy toll

tured Fengtien, Japanese field

MIDWAY RESTAURANT QUALITY SERVICE Opposite the Court House

"I PILE IN A HALF TON LOAD... AND STILL GET 20 MILES PER GALLON FROM MY CHRYSLER ROYAL!"

ANDREW FISCHER, JR., Bellevue, Ky.

"I still can scarcely believe my eyes—or my speedometer! I never thought cars of Chrysler Royal's operating efficiency could be built.

"Imagine making 20 miles per gallon carrying half-ton loads up hill and down dale. That's what my Chrysler Royal gives me. I have to make deliveries of batteries all over southern-western Ohio. Two or three times a week I put a thousand to 1200 pounds of these batteries in the back end of my coupe and the performance and economy I get is just astounding.

"And then, when my work is done, I have a fine-looking car for my pleasure driving. I like the chair-high seats with which the Royal is provided. They give you a comfortable, restful ride and also permit you to have a good view of the road ahead."

IT'S ROYAL FOR ROOM!"

"I LIKE ITS LINES...!"

"It's delightful to find a car that has both low-slung, dashing lines and spacious roominess inside. I like the chair-high seats . . . the comfort of riding . . . the easy handling . . . and most of all, the safe, straight-ahead stopping provided by the hydraulic brakes."

"SNEAK PREVIEW"

SCORES HIT HERE

Palace Has Good Crowd for Showing of "Topper," Rousing Comedy.

Palace theatergoers last night roared the state in applauding what looked like one of the comedy hits of the summer in the theater's first "sneak preview." The picture was "Topper," starring Constance Bennett, Cary Grant and Roland Young, with Billie Burke heading the supporting cast. More than 1,200 persons responded to the management's invitation to be the first in Ohio to see the picture and a large majority took advantage of the opportunity to write their opinions of the picture and its players on cards given at the door.

Success of the first "sneak preview" probably will lead to an established policy, George E. Planck, manager, said when he announced the show a week ago.

"Topper" is a full-length Hal Roach comedy, played to the hilt by an array of talent. Super telek photograph made possible the story of a gay young couple killed in an automobile wreck who came back to earth and play hosts to Roland Young, a husband whose wife runs him on schedule, and who gently reminds him too often that they're middle aged and can't have whirlwind good times any more. Miss Bennett displays a lively talent for light comedy and Young rates the title role. It's a fast-paced, light-as-air farce which will rate high with audience when it is given general release. It will return to the Palace later in the summer.

TOT WILL LOVE BUTTON-FRONT FROCK Looks proud of her cunning frock, doesn't she—this fashionista young Miss who's "all set" for a trip to the playground, picnic or a walk with mother. Miss Two-to-Ten finds it easy to dress herself these days in button-front style that fastened in no time, and she's specially fond of the action pleats, puffed sleeves, and Peter Pan collar. Mother found Pattern 4469 so very easy to cut, fit, and stitch that she's about to start on several additional versions of this simple pantie-style. It's a joy to behold in printed percale, gingham or plaid. For Fall school days, make it of cotton tweed.

Pattern 4469 is available in children's sizes 2, 4, 6, 8 and 10. Size 6 requires 2 1/2 yards, 36 inch fabric. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

The Stars Say-

For Thursday, July 20

THE AUGURIES for this day are rather satisfactory. It certainly tends to jump at conclusions, with correspondingly hasty actions, are kept in check. A piece of news may incite this reckless tendency, which might be an unsettling influence, causing change, travel and possibly a trend toward extravagant outlays.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a rather lively year, in which good news seems to be a mainspring of activity. But this should not be submitted to snap judgments or rash speculation or extravagance, as there is danger of loss and regret. A child born on this day may be versatile, lively and ambitious, with inclination to sudden moves and hasty or reckless judgments as well as extravagance. It may be popular and have much social or domestic pleasure in life.

Without Economy.

Congress seems adjournment without doing anything toward putting into effect economies which have been promised for the last two years. Government expenses go forward at a rate which will eat up all the increases in income and leave nothing over toward retirement of the national debt.

A wave of government spending did much to raise President Roosevelt's popularity with the masses in 1936 and contributed in large measure to his reelection. Continued spending may be the means by which this hold on the electorate will be maintained.

Even if the President should move toward retrenchment, and there is little indication of this, congress is likely to be substitute. Evidence of this came when it overrode the Roosevelt supported move for ending low interest farm loans.

When distribution of easy money is withdrawn, it is difficult to cut it off without making enemies. Officials all along the line have found this out in their efforts to curtail WPA and relief expenses.

More political fortitude than Washington has yet displayed will be required if the cost of government is to come down. It is one of the most disturbing circumstances in an otherwise promising period that the oligo continues at a reckless pace after the emergency which unleashed the flood of easy dollars has passed and that income, while improving, shows no signs of reaching the proportions to justify such spending.

Saloon Regulation.

Citizens with regard for decency and order—and this includes many who voted for repeal of the 18th amendment—applaud any move to clean up the saloon and the campaign which local officials are making in a number of Ohio cities to stop bingo, keno and other petty gambling games in a move in the right direction.

When the repeal campaign was under way proponents all the way down from President Roosevelt promised that there would be no return of the saloon. The saloon has returned, however, in a much more offensive form than Ohio knew it in prohibition days.

Next steps, after gambling has been eradicated from the saloon, should be closing of vulgar floor shows, enforcement of the ban on juvenile patronage, regulation of sale to patrons who have already had too much and the elimination of rowdyism.

Compared with the 1931 saloon, the 1937 saloon was an orderly, well managed and decently run institution and return to the wartime policies would be an advancement in the cause of decency.

More Wild Life.

Pending in Congress where it is in danger of being smothered by the growing pile of unfinished business, is a measure by Senator Pittman of Nevada which every sportsman hopes will receive favorable action.

It provides that the federal government shall cooperate with the states in conserving and restoring wild life by establishing and stocking breeding areas. States and local groups have done considerable work along this line but federal cooperation would give it an impetus beyond the possibilities of any local project.

The work would be financed from the excise tax on guns, shells and cartridges. Thus hunters who have depopulated the game lands of their natural denizens would pay the cost of restoring the life they have destroyed. It's all very reasonable and it ought to be a law.

Born 30 Years Too Late.

These boys and girls who think they are having a good time as they bicycle back and forth through 1937 traffic at constant risk of life and limb were born 30 years too late to know the real pleasure of cycling.

Take the period from 1900 to 1910. That was the day for bicycle fun. No automobile menaced the riders and bicycling was a safe and enjoyable sport.

There were no paved roads but what is infinitely better, there were smooth if narrow paths along all the country roads and there were shade trees where the riders could rest on the cool grass between spurts of cycling.

The bicycle was more than a toy in those days. Grownups rode for pleasure singly and in clubs and to many the bicycle was an important means of daily transportation.

New Deal's "Smear" Campaign

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
The Marion Star

WASHINGTON, July 26.—President Roosevelt has plenty to worry about in discharging the multifarious duties of his office, but one of the chief thorns in his side must be the persons who set themselves up as spokesmen of the new deal. This becomes particularly evident as we call the new deal spokesman back to draw a wedge between the President and his personal friend, Governor Lehman of New York. The fact that a man may have an honest and sincere conviction about a particular question seems to make these spokesmen as wholly impossible and, this moment, an opinion is expressed which deviates even slightly from new deal philosophy, the first of hate and the buckets of water which are turned on the individuals who have the temerity to assert their independence.

The smear campaign is usually handled by the Democratic national committee, whom believe that politics permits it to violate all rules of fairness and yet cast its own inadvisable influence in circumventing the federal corrupt practices act are somehow blameless. Mr. Roosevelt is to some extent culpable for permitting the smear method to be used, for he himself has occasionally used epithets attributing improper methods to those who oppose him on public questions. But the objectives of the new deal have learned the technique so well that they employ it against an body no matter what his previous record. Thus Senator Wheeler, liberal of liberals, has lately been the subject of bitter abuse by the so-called liberal spokesman. The chief objection is that he happened to use his judgment independently of the new dealers. It seems that a person who disagrees with the new deal may do so privately but to make public his dissent is a high crime and misdemeanor in the code of so-called liberals.

Governor Lehman's misdeed, it seems, was that he let the public know how he felt about the supreme court plan and that he released his letter at the wrong time. Just why one who fights for a cause must conform to some rule laid down by persons on the other side when he wants his own contention to prevail is something of a mystery.

From now on some of the new deal people will endeavor to make it appear that the persons who defeated the court "packing" plan in the senate were reactionaries or conservatives. This is a kind of Men the Senators Wheeler, McCormick, O'Mahony, King, Burke, Booth and Walsh of Massachusetts for instance, do not belong conservatives just because they want to see the spirit of the constitution preserved. It is wrong to class the group who defeated the court plan as conservative Democrats, but this implies that the Democratic party belongs to the new deal, which may be open to question in the next primaries. The most appropriate designation is "Independent Democrats," which accurately describes the group of honorable fenders statemen who saved the Constitution from the destruction to which they were due. Liberal and now deal.

The incident, however, is typical of the smear idea which has prevailed here ever since the new deal began. The strategy applied in those who differed from the deal was always to attack them personally, to imply that they could not possibly be honest but must be the tool of some other interest. Part of the game is to get people to write letters to the press attacking everybody who differs with the new deal of course being an economic or if not of a product of wealth and luxury.

Sleep Recipe

BY SYDNEY H. LEIBOWITZ
International News Service Correspondent

PICTSBURGH, July 26.—Autumn news that a state will never wear out, although that will require no little care as a bundle of household gadgets that can't be bought for a few cents and will last for years!

All this and much more was compiled into the realm of possibility today with announcement of the development and commercial production of tungsten carbide, a tool material second to diamonds in hardness, a material so tough it will cut and shape the hardest of alloy steels.

Calculated 10 years of research research, tungsten carbide is now being manufactured commercially at nearby McKeesport, a steel plant that resembles a streamlined night club from the outside and a spotlessly clean hospital inside.

Extremely Good

Essentially a fusion of carbide and tungsten, the new tool material costs $100 for from $100 to $400 a pound. It takes 20 days to produce one six-pound batch and it cannot yet be made in batches any larger. Because it is used for such costly work as shaping and cutting metals, it is manufactured in rooms of unequal cleanliness for one minute uranium particle might weaken the inherent strength of a tool of tungsten carbide and cause it to break on the job.

On the "Harden + Schle" the diamond is first with a rating of 10 and the new product second with 9.5. Hard steel stands rate one around 5.

The chief advantage of this new product lies in its toughness. It will make possible the development of still harder alloys—and make it possible to fabricate and shape alloys now known for which there are yet no hard enough cutting tools, according to plant officials.

Durability Augmented

It will permit automobile manufacturers to develop much tougher alloys than are now used in automobile production and hence produce cars that will last far longer, according to company engineers. It will also, they predict, make possible the construction of airplanes which can fly for many more thousands of miles before undergoing the costly motor overhauling now required after much less use.

As an indication of how tough the new metal actually is, the engineers have the "case record of one cutting tool that produced 32,000,000 rivets before showing signs of wear. Rather than result in more unemployment, they believe their new products will open new vistas of manufacture and eventually provide still more work.

Streamlined Plant

The factory in which this tungsten carbide is produced provides a strange contrast to the other buildings in the great steel manufacturing center where it is located. It is of modern streamlined construction in colors of blue and silver. Rooms containing noisy machinery have been soundproofed. The floors are waxed to prevent presence of an undue amount of dust which might find its way into the metal during the process of its manufacture. The air likewise is washed and cooled before being drawn into the factory rooms.

You stop mashing or crunching. Your arms are idle. Your legs do nothing. Your eyes are glassy. You close your eyes and start to count sheep. Don't be a tenterhook sheep-counter. Round up sheep that have been sheared. Eat woolly sheep, will only make you hotter. Have a pool of water on the other side of the fence that they jump over. Water is a great cooling force. If you took the sponge-bath you know that Remember the sponge-bath?

Give up? Okay—get out of bed and try to find a good book. Remember, "an idle mind is the devil's workshop." Be calm, and concentrate on your reading. Mornings will come to you in his own sweet time—probably in the office next day.

Nazi Economic Theory Is Puzzle

BY PAUL KECSEKEMETI
United Press Correspondent

BERLIN, July 24.—The Third Reich's attitude toward capitalist profits is paradoxical, it seems.

On the one hand, there is Nazi economic theory which touts upon profit being fundamental to the good principle of economic life. The edge of "common welfare" compared to private welfare" is repeated everywhere. It is said that Adolf Hitler once exclaimed in a conference with industrial and financial leaders: "I don't want to hear the word 'profitability' ever more!"

On the other hand, the Reich's economic policy is firmly controlled by Dr. Hjalmar Schacht who believes in private capitalism; profits and more than ever expresses his contempt for the soak the rich doctrine endorsed by some of the more radical Nazis.

It is rather difficult to explain this apparent contradiction. Some observers believe that Schacht is merely a transitional phenomenon and that the Third Reich is headed for complete state socialism without individual profits. Others contend that radical "socialistic" physiology merely serves as a mouthpiece deceiving workers and intellectuals as to the capitalistic nature of the Nazi regime.

Very In Interpretations

Both schools of thought are able to point out important facts seemingly bearing out their theories.

Thus, those who believe in German state socialism argue that German industrialists, besides having lost their personal initiative to a astonishing degree, are more and more compelled to share their profits with the state.

Taxation has increased enormously. Thus, the "corporation tax"—the principal tax levied from limited companies—last year yielded 1,047,000,000 marks, as compared to 106,000,000 marks in 1932-33. During 1928-29 the same tax yielded only 600,000,000 marks.

Industrial firms are also compelled to raise a contribution serving to subsidize German exports. Dividends may not exceed 6 per cent or, in some cases, 5 per cent. Pressure is being brought to bear upon concerns to induce them to keep all workers on the payroll even if they cannot all be employed due to a slump in orders. Finally, mining and textile concerns are being forced to establish new plants, regardless of costs, for the production of synthetic raw materials such as oil or fiber. It is in this connection that Hitler pronounced his dictum about "profitability."

Industrial Profits Rise

All these facts seem to suggest that the trend is against private profits. Nevertheless—as the sup-

Most Artists "Stay Put"

BY O. O. MINTRY

NEW YORK, July 25.—Artists take residential jobs more than almost any other class. Sedentary occupations like painting, drawing and writing are the coming to power of National Socialism, while the wages of the individual worker on the whole remained stationary.

The net profit of 50 representatives of German limited companies, according to figures published in Der Wirtschafts-Ring, rose from 79,600,000 marks in 1928-33 to 176,000, 990 marks in 1936-37. But these figures give an incomplete picture of the real profits made by these concerns. Much of their earnings have been constantly rising since the coming to power of National Socialism, while the wages of the individual worker on the whole remained stationary.

Maybe it was a "bum rap" to the public wanted to scare Charlie about something a "more serious—something else," Arthur "Dutch" Schulz, the former head of New York racketeers, said. His bodyguards were shot out in a Newark, N. J., hotel six months before.

In his delicious rattling death, Schulz had told police "The Boss himself" shot him.

But the police had nothing definite on Schulz in the shooting-murder. And Davis, 21, had something on the man.

Racket Smasher Gets 'The Boss'

Dewey Sends Vice King U for Long Term.

On the trail of a $1,000-a-year crime "slush fund," Special Rackets Prosecutor Thomas E. Dewey finally learned that "The Boss" was a shadow figure named Charlie. That was enough. He knew who "Charlie" was but trapping this multi-millionaire "Croesus of Crime" was another matter. This is the third in a series of stories New York City's Racket-smashers.

By ROGER D. GREENE
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK, July 25.—The line expired at midnight.

At one minute past 12 two New York detectives, incognito under secret code names, from Prosecutor Dewey went into the Rock, Ark., and asked the killer:

"Where's Charlie?" Were they him with us?"

The killer shook his head.

"You can't do that. His lawyer has got until tomorrow to file an appeal against extradition him."

Grumbling sleepily came his attorney, whining "I'm not napping me!" the prisoner was trundled from his cell with the railroad station and sat in the compartment of a fast train.

Charlie "Lucky" Luciano, scar-faced, droopy-shouldered, sprawled in the slanting sun on the east side New York, now known as "The Boss" of New York's vice ring, complained bitterly the turn in his fortunes.

The cops, he said, had him wrong. Disorderly houses were his real racket. He had to be known in connection with a fixed racket like that.

The detectives nodded. "See, Charlie," they said. They understood. Maybe he had right to feel hurt. Maybe the grand jury indictments should have been something else than the counts charging compulsory taxation.

Maybe it was a "bum rap" to the public wanted to scare Charlie about something a "more serious—something else," Arthur "Dutch" Schulz, the former head of New York racketeers, said. His bodyguards were shot out in a Newark, N. J., hotel six months before.
